ABOUT SPOLIARIUM

SPOLIARIUM – Is the historical painting by a Filipino artist Juan Luna submitted to the Exposición Nacional de Bellas Artes in 1884 in Madrid, where it garnered the first gold medal. It is often misspelled as “Spolarium”. Also, it is a Latin word referring to the basement of the Roman Colosseum where the fallen and dying gladiators are dumped and devoid of their worldly possessions.

TODAY, this is the digital platform for the Community of Artists and Art Lovers who help one another in recognizing and empowering Artists and Arts worldwide.

The Problem and Solution:

PROBLEM: Recognition and empowerment challenges in the Art Industry in the Philippines then worldwide. After talking to a handful of artists in the Philippines, I was shocked to find some who admitted to me that they’ve considered or have attempted self harm and even suicide. Many felt devalued or worthless. Then the little voice inside of me helped me to find a solution on how to bring attention and value to their craftsmanship. — Herica Honcolada (click here to know more: <https://www.jadorevoyager.com/herica/> )

SOLUTION: RECOGNIZE and EMPOWER Artists in the Philippines and all over the world. Spoliarium platform was founded to take action to help artists and their industry thrive. We will all RECOGNIZE and EMPOWER Artists in the Philippines, then globally by hosting regular exhibits, maintaining online presence to connect them directly to art collectors/art lovers worldwide

RAECHE

EXPRESSIONISM

- Working on acrylic has allowed Raeche, and perhaps more than that, fostered and deepened her love for the medium of art. It brought to life, after all, her own individual perspective to the depiction of her favorite themes – from still life objects as flowers, fascinating creatures like butterflies, to everyday people such as children and mothers
- It was this earnest excitement that made Raeche Dacanay muster the courage to set up her first solo exhibit in 2008 entitled “Expressions of My Soul
- ”Her version of butterflies, for instance, articulated in image how she felt about her journey as an artist, that what once was a dream now blossoming into something fulfilling. Through her work, she also wanted to leave an impression on her viewers into a reminiscence into their own childhood, handing to them a flicker of happiness all their own that still lingers on within them
- Ever since Raeche learned how to paint in 2004 – during a summer class session from the garage of a painter – she realized how being in that state had given her a world of her own. From then on, painting had become her passion
- By education, she graduated in 2003 from DLSU - College of Saint Benilde, and the Philippine School of Interior Design to major in BS Interior Design. It naturally led her into the field where she experienced working as a designer both in-house and as a freelancer, and even into garments production and merchandising. She even ended up working as an art facilitator for grade school children. – Raeche, has been in 34 solo and group art exhibitions nationwide.
